Firemen from Dysart et al and Minden answered a call to a cottage fire at Edgewater Beach Resort last Wednesday, but were unable to save the small frame structure. The fire is believed to have been caused by over-heating of the woodstove in the background. Here Dysart volunteer fireman Tony Salvatori douses the last of the flames. Damage was estimated at $15,000. Occupants of the cottage were not in the building at the time of the blaze.

Chamber, commission attack recommendation to exclude Bruton, Clyde

Both the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce and the Economic Development Commission have come out strongly against the possibility that Bruton and Clyde Townships will be dropped from Algonquin Park.

At a meeting in Huntsville, Friday night, to seek public input of the first Five Year Review of the park's master plan, both organizations presented strongly worded briefs denouncing Section 4.13 of the Review, which terms the two townships "anomalies" in Algonquin's management policies.

Contending that the philosophy in the Master Plan for the park was established without input from surrounding municipalities, the Chamber brief attacks the Ministry of Natural Resources for keeping the park a "secret", and for applying "inflexible restrictions" on park use.

Section 4.13 of the Five Year Review says Bruton and Clyde Townships should be dropped from the park because permitted hunting and snowmobiling in those areas is at odds with restrictions on such activities that apply to the rest of the park. Both the Chamber and the Economic Development Commission however, believe those uses can be permitted and even encouraged in the townships without excluding them from the park if they are afforded a special status.

The Chamber brief hammers the Ministry for downplaying the park in government promotional literature on the basis that the area is under too much pressure from tourists.

"This short-sighted policy has already caused some elegant old resorts in the park to be demolished, and continues to threaten the ones that remain in the park," the Chamber brief says. It argues that resorts should be allowed to remain in business and improve their facilities.

The Chamber says the Ministry should establish a road access to the park through Bruton and Clyde Townships. The lack of access to the park through Haliburton County has made it a "cul de sac" which "virtually eliminates the through traffic that many tourist facilities thrive on," the brief says.

"One has only to look at the development along Highway 11 compared to highway 35 to get a rough idea that the park has had a significant effect on our economy. Access to the park from below would not solve this, but would certainly go a long way toward improving it."

Strongest wording in the brief is directed at the suggestion that Bruton and Clyde should be removed from the park and turned into crown land nature reserves for hunting and fishing.

"A more logical solution to handling these townships that you refer to as 'Anomalies' would be to provide them with special status," the Chamber brief states. "Retain them as part of the park, and not only allow but promote their use for special purposes."

"These townships...offer the Ministry a tremendous opportunity to accommodate special interest groups that rightfully are applying pressure for some use of some part of the park. Snowmobiling, skiing, hunting, canoeing, lumbering, fishing and even trail bikes and other recreational vehicles can co-exist in this area," the Chamber says.

Wood stove overheats, blaze destroys Edgewater cottage

A fire that started when a small wood stove overheated destroyed a frame cottage at Edgewater Beach Resort early Wednesday afternoon.

The fire was discovered by a guest, and the alarm was turned in to Dysart et al firemen, who were on the scene in minutes.

Brian Edwards, owner of the resort, said in an interview Tuesday that the fire is thought to have been smoldering for at least an hour before it was discovered. The cottage was rented at the time of the blaze, but the occupants had left for the village earlier in the day.

First efforts were to determine if the building was occupied, Edwards said, and then a number of guests at the resort aided efforts to extinguish the blaze with portable pumps. Hydro was cut to the resort when flames threatened to bring down wires servicing the cottage.

Firemen from Anson, Hindon, and Minden were also called to the scene in Minden Township, and took over from Dysart firemen to finally douse the flames.

Edwards praised the efforts of both guests and firemen to contain the fire.

An investigation determined that the fire started when the damper in the stove was left open, causing it to overheat and ignite the interior wall.

Damage was estimated at $15,000. The cottage was insured.

Fire Marshal's Office official urges ratepayers to 'forgive and forget', stand behind chief

Stanhope forms new fire department

A new, 21-man fire department became a reality last Thursday night when representatives of the Fire Marshal's Office, Stanhope council and township ratepayers met in the fire hall to take the last step on the road to reorganizing the municipality's fire fighting brigade.

The meeting capped weeks of study by Fire Marshal's representatives, C.N. Vine and Bernie Walsh, that resulted in an extensive set of recommendations for putting the department back on its feet in the wake of months of problems.

As well as calling for the passing of a comprehensive fire department by-law setting down responsibilities of the chief, deputy chief and other officials of the department, the report, endorsed by council, recommended that positions on a newly formed department be advertised.

Norman Vine, author of the report from the Fire Marshal's Office, told close to 50 ratepayers at last Thursday's public meeting, the time had come to make a choice about whether or not the township would continue to have its own department.

"Tonight, we have to either sink or swim on this fire department problem," Vine told the meeting, adding "It's unfortunate that the department was divided. I think even the municipality was divided."

Vine said he and fire services adviser Bernie Walsh had made a thorough examination of the situation, and had "found good and bad in all areas."

A major step in reorganizing the department was the appointment of a chief to replace Richard Kinsmen, after Kinsmen declined an offer for reinstatement called for in the Fire Marshal's Office report.

Vine told the meeting he felt the choice of George Wilson, chief of the new department effective last Thursday, was a sound one.

"We're confident George can do a good job if he has the support of the men," Vine said.

Noting that the new by-law provided the basis on which to build a strong department, and that existing facilities and equipment were more than adequate, Vine urged ratepayers to lend support to the department by volunteering to act as firefighters.

"It's a matter of letting bygones be bygones," Vine said. "It's not going to be adequate to forgive. We've got to forgive and forget."

Following Vine's presentation, applications were received for the new department.

Those accepted were: William Lindsay, Neil Griffin, Kevin Finch, Robert Jennings, Larry VanLieshout, Marvin Brown, William Coven, Hector Arsenault, Dale MacDonald, John Muise, Ross MacDonald, Dennis Davies, Wayne Cully, Tom Kunza, Walter Visentin, Albert Carpenter, Belinda Brown, John Hogg, Larry Hewitt, Donald Barker and

Robert Nangle.

Appointed to serve as interim captains for a 30-day period until the department roster is finalized were: Don Barker, Larry Hewitt and Robert Nangle.

Training of the new department, at least ten of whom have previous fire-fighting experience, began Monday night under the direction of chief Wilson.

The Fire Marshal's Office has agreed to provide 40 hours of basic training for all department members, and that training is expected to begin on a weekly basis beginning in late September.

Those volunteers who served on the interim department following the resignations of former department members in June are also expected to be available for emergency duty until the formation of the new department has been finalized.

Police lay 27 liquor charges at Minden arena Saturday

At least 27 charges for illegal possession of liquor were laid at a rock concert in Minden, Saturday night, by officers from the local detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Detachment commander sergeant Arnold Besteman, said in an interview Tuesday that the high number of charges is not unusual for this time of year. Concentration on areas such as the rock concert at the Minden arena and the regatta at Haliburton Lake which also saw a large number of liquor offence charges laid, is the result of complaints from the public about illegal drinking, the sergeant said.

Besteman said complaints about the problem began last year, and resulted in the courts setting higher fines for drinking offences on Minden's main street and arena grounds than are assessed for the same offence in other areas of the county. Conviction on a charge of illegal possession of liquor brings an automatic $103 fine if the offence took place on Minden's main street or at the arena. A similar conviction would result in a $38 fine for offences committed in other parts of the county. Conviction on possession charges where a vehicle is involved bring a $78 fine in the rest of the county.

Besteman said judges in the courts "are watching things, and if they set fines and they don't have any results then they set a higher penalty."

The $103 fine for Minden offences was implemented last year.

Minden OPP officers now have an Alcohol Level Evaluation Roadside Tester (ALERT) available for use which could lead to an increase in impaired driving charges, but so far this summer, the device has not been used.

"We haven't had time yet," sergeant Besteman said. He cited the large number of occurrences the detachment is called on to handle in the summer and a shortage of manpower as reasons why the ALERT device has not been used.

Survey to determine need for housing in Monmouth

A housing needs survey to determine if there is a need for senior citizens apartments or low rental housing units in Monmouth Township is expected to get underway within the next few weeks.

Conducted by the Ministry of Housing, the survey will be sent to senior citizens and low income tenants in the township as a first step to providing government funded housing units for Monmouth citizens.

The study was requested by council at a meeting July 9. Questionnaires that will determine such things as present housing standards, income and other details will be mailed or distributed to all seniors in the township, as well as to tenants with incomes at the lower end of the scale. The information, which is to be kept strictly confidential, will be compiled by the Ministry of Housing on the township's behalf.

No doubt about it; she's out. The action around home plate got a little rugged last Saturday as women's softball teams from several communities came to Haliburton to compete in a tournament. A good crowd was on hand to view the action. More pictures and complete results appear on page 7.

Stanhope's oldest citizen, 99-year old Charlie Fader was the guest of honour at the first annual fun day in the community Saturday. Here he chats with another honoured guest at the event, MPP John Eakins.

Charlie Fader guest of honor at Stanhope official opening

What was planned as a day of dedication turned out to be a day of reconciliation in Stanhope Township, Saturday, as a small but enthusiastic crowd turned out for the first ever Fun Day.

In a speech capping the day's event, Reeve Jim Harrison summed up hopes that community involvement in the day might contribute to greater harmony among ratepayers.

"I must say thanks for the people of Stanhope to all who have made this (Fun Day) possible," the reeve said. "May it prove to all that despite much that has been said and printed, community spirit is not dead in Stanhope."

"Recent experience has not crushed that spirit. But rather, as a result of difficult experience, Stanhope will continue with determination to rise above pettiness, and with mature consideration, continue to strive to make the township a pleasant and friendly place to live in and to visit."

The day featured a full slate of events that got underway at 10 a.m. with an arts and crafts display in the community centre and adjacent library. Drizzle fell throughout the day and kept crowds small, but some events, most notably the dog show, horseshoe tournament and dance, drew a large number of participants.

Action centred on the baseball diamond at 10 a.m., when a team of eager players from the Maple Lake Cottagers Association took on a less proficient and younger but no less keen team from the rest of the township. Final score was judged to be far less important than the fun the game provided for players and spectators, but the team from Maple Lake came out on top after four innings.

A horseshoe tournament also proved popular, with 18 people making up nine teams for the event.

Winning team was the duo of Bud Pfeiffer and Cec Bailey, who took home $10 for their victory. Second prize of $6 went to the team of Laverne Miscio and Reg Miscio. The consolation prize of $2 went to the youngest player in the competition, John Valentine.

Tournament organizer, Marvin Brown, said he was "really pleased" with the response to the tournament, which was also a first for the township.

A tennis demonstration put on by a representative of the Ontario Tennis Association was also a crowd pleaser, and the new tennis courts were quickly filled with youngsters

Galway Cavendish council meeting

At the most recent meeting of Galway-Cavendish council, the following matters were considered:

The municipality's solicitor, Don Ebbs, was authorized to present By-law 5-1976 to the Ontario Municipal Board as circulated and further, in his presentation to O.M.B. chairman presiding at the hearing, he was authorized to use Glen Bird of the firm Bird & Hale Ltd. as an expert witness if this is desirable. The date of the hearing will be established after September 14, 1979.

William Hill attended the meeting to discuss a "Stop Work Order" that was placed on his property by the building inspector. Council informed Hill that his building was in contravention of By-law 78-43 and that the structure would have to be removed. Hill thanked council for taking the time to listen to his request for exemption from the by-law.

Norm Gilmore attended the meeting to bring council up to date on the water situation. A few ratepayers of Galway receive their water supply from the Legion and due to a storm a few weeks ago, the supply was temporarily cut off. It was agreed that the water line from the Legion east to the second house which is plugged would be replaced and that the township backhoe would be used to dig the trench.

Strike cuts phone installations

A backlog of installation orders is piling up but emergency telephone repairs and installations continue to be handled by management and supervisors throughout the area as a strike by Bell telephone installers enters its second week.

Judy Wright, acting area manager for Bell, said in an interview Tuesday that "repair work and emergencies are being handled almost immediately," by management and supervisory staff.

"As far as telephone service going in, emergency telephone services (such as fire phones) are being handled just about the same, almost immediately," she said.

Wright said there is a backlog of installation requests in the area, but was unable to say Tuesday how many telephone installations are presently awaiting settlement of the strike.

"We have a crew in, and hopefully we will be caught up shortly. Foremen and managers are working regular service orders to clear up the backlog."

A mediator has been appointed in the dispute, but there was no indication this week of how soon the installers might be back on the job.

Stanhope fun day a success despite weather

Dog show, horseshoe tournament drew large number of participants and adults eager to try the sport, most for the first time. A children's theatre show which had been planned had to be cancelled when the company was unable to find a location that suited their performing needs.

Stanhope reeve Jim Harrison, left, and former reeve Sinc Nesbitt unveiled plaques last Saturday during ceremonies to officially open the new community centre building. The plaques list the names of firemen whose volunteer labour made the building possible, and acknowledge the contribution Wintario made to the structure.

Throughout the morning, two hind quarters of beef sizzled on spits under the watchful eye of councillor Elvin Johnson, and by noon the meat was ready. It drew high praise from the crowd on hand, according to organizers.

At one p.m. activities shifted to the new community centre, where official opening ceremonies got underway. Planned for outside, the ceremonies had to be moved inside because of the inclement weather.

On hand for the ceremonies were MPP John Ekins, former reeve Sinc Nesbitt, Wintario representative Brenda Couch, Reeve Jim Harrison, and guest of honour for the day, 99-year old Charlie Fader who cut the ribbon to officially open the new building.

A tree was also planted on the grounds of the township library to honour Mr. Fader in his 100th year.

Councillor Harry Davis acted as master of ceremonies for the dedication ceremony, which was also attended by residents of Extensicare and Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home who were bussed to the township to take part in the day's events.

Most popular event of the day was a dog show. It drew some 30 entrants, several of whom put more than one dog on display to vie for honours in a number of classes.

Karen Minaker had the best dressed dog, while Tracy Mills had the largest dog in the show. Smallest dog was entered by Nancy Minaker. Dog with the shortest hair was entered by Craig Smith, dog with the longest hair was entered by David Carter, while the dog with the longest ears was entered by Peter Deller. Joyce Gray's dog had the shortest legs. Craig Smith's dog had the most spots, and a dog entered by Dave Burden proved to have the longest nose. Ribbons were awarded for first, second and third place in each of the novelty categories.

In competition for best of the breeds, the sporting title went to Craig Smith. Best working dog was owned by Dave Burden, who also won the grand champion award for the best of the breeds.

There was no entry in the terrier class. The best hound was entered by Greg Howe, the best non-sporting dog by Lee McKinley, and the best toy size dog by Nancy Minaker. Winner of the obedience trial was Dave Teahan's animal.

Rounding out the afternoon's activities was a puppet show in the fire hall which delighted youngsters.

Winding up the day was a dance in the community centre that drew a packed house.

Chairman of the day's events, Ella Gillies, said organizers "were disappointed, naturally," with the small turnout that could be blamed on the weather, but added that "everybody considers it a success."

"It was our first effort and we had no idea what to expect," she said in an interview Monday. "We didn't plan it to be a money maker and it wasn't mainly because of the weather." However, she said "it would appear that we might, just might, cover expenses."

Gillies said that in particular there were "a lot of positive comments about the barbecue."

When planning for the event began in February, Gillies said, no one knew if the day would get off the ground, but as the day drew

Damage to the 1979 car he was driving was estimated at $6,000. The driver of the careless driving was laid against a Huntsville woman after the car she was driving collided with a log skidder, Saturday.

Police say the skidder, driven by Thomas Kunza, 26, of RR-2, Minden, was northbound on Highway 35 in Stanhope Township when it was struck from behind by a car driven by Margaret Bice, 49, of Huntsville.

Damage to Bice's station wagon was estimated at $2000. The skidder was not damaged.

A 39-year old Sarnia man escaped unhurt when the car he was driving left Little Kennis Lake Road and rolled over.

Gordon Hillman was westbound on Little Kennis Lake Road at about 8 p.m. Saturday when his car entered the north ditch and rolled over. Damage to the car was estimated at $1000.

Three Haliburton area youths suffered minimal injuries Sunday when the car in which they were riding struck a tree.

Richard Collins, 19, of RR 1 Haliburton, was westbound on the Barry Line when the car he was driving left the road and struck a tree.

Collins was charged with failing to wear a seatbelt and with driving without an operator's licence.

Kim Barry, 16, of RR 1, Haliburton, owner of the vehicle, was charged with failing to report a collision and for having no insurance.

A third occupant of the car, Nathan Hie, 16, of Haliburton, was also reported to have suffered minimal injuries in the mishap.

Provincial teachers endorse statement

By a substantial majority, delegates to the Annual Assembly of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation have approved an 18-point policy statement on teacher redundancy and job protection.

In passing the policy, delegates have said the seniority, not merit or qualifications, should be the major factor used to determine redundancy.

The package, developed in cooperation with the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario says seniority should be based on length of service with a board of its predecessors boards.

The factor known as "bridged employment", whereby teachers may be able to count total years taught even if they move in and out of the profession, would be left up to local bargaining units.

The policy also says that all teachers, including principals, vice-principals and others in positions of responsibility should be included in any seniority list that is compiled by local boards.

As well, delegates say that all collective agreements should contain redundancy clauses protecting teachers, and procedures to be followed in case of redundancy.

George Meek, Federation President, said the policy is provided as a guideline to teachers negotiating at the local level.

Meek stated it was still the position of the Federation that there should be no need for redundant teachers in light of the outstanding needs of young people that are not being met.

Anomaly or asset?

At least three official bodies in Haliburton County have begun to put pressure on the Ministry of Natural Resources to abandon an idea contained in a Five Year Review of the Algonquin Park Master Plan. The Review suggests that half of Clyde Township and all of Bruton Township should be excluded from the park. It is a suggestion that has drawn the criticism of Dysart et al council, the Chamber of Commerce and the Economic Development Commission. It is a suggestion that the Ministry of Natural Resources should ignore.

When the decision was made to include Bruton and Clyde Townships within the park, the Ministry clearly felt there was a need for those areas, and that they would fit within the philosophy which governs the park's operation. Now, it seems, the Ministry is taking a different view of their usefulness. The Five Year Review terms them "anomalies" within the park scheme. Main reason for that view is that hunting, which was historically prevalent in the area, was allowed to continue when the townships were assumed into the park in 1958. Since hunting is not permitted in the rest of the park's vast area, Bruton and Clyde are seen as no longer fitting into the pattern of park management set down in the Master Plan. A second reason for the push to drop the townships is that snowmobiling has grown in those areas, especially along the hydro right-of-way into Whitney. But snowmobiling is banned in the rest of Algonquin, and it seems the Ministry would rather drop the townships than seek a more flexible philosophy that would allow Bruton and Clyde to be used for both hunting and snowmobiling while the rest of the park remains off limits for those forms of recreation. Such inflexibility is clearly wrong headed, especially since there is a growing demand for expanded recreational use of the park.

The Chamber, Dysart and the Economic Development Commission have presented briefs to the review committee calling on the Ministry to afford the townships special status if they cannot be seen as fitting into the present park philosophy. Such a special status would allow historical uses to continue, and would provide the Ministry with a means of satisfying the groups who would like to see forms of recreation other than canoeing, hiking and camping made available within park boundaries.

The Five Year Review has suggested that Bruton and Clyde could become a fish and wildlife management outside park boundaries. That means the areas would become crown land, closed to commercial and cottage development, and non taxable. Dysart presently receives grants in lieu of taxes for the two townships, and some two thirds of those grants go to the county Board of Education. Converting the townships to crown land outside the park boundaries would mean those grants would be lost. Local taxpayers would have to take up the shortfall.

Instead of dropping Bruton and Clyde, the Ministry should consider taking a more flexible approach to park use in certain areas. It is difficult to believe that logging, which disturbs land, wildlife and people, and which is carried out extensively in the park, fits into a philosophy of preservation for recreation, while snowmobiling and hunting do not.

Bruton and Clyde should be retained in the park, and the Ministry should see the recreation they are already providing as an asset rather than a liability.

Forgive and forget

At a meeting last Thursday, ratepayers of Stanhope Township took the final step toward rebuilding a strong fire department. Following a brief presentation by C.N. Vine, an official of the Fire Marshal's Office who authored the report and recommendations which set the department on the road to recovery, ratepayers completed the process by volunteering to serve as firefighters. Everyone with an interest in the township must surely have breathed a sigh of relief when 21 people were accepted to serve on the revamped department.

The road to recovery has been a long and difficult one. But it has not been in vain. Council, firefighters and ratepayers have learned much about themselves, and about how easy it is for things to go wrong when groups of people must work together. Armed with that knowledge, it seems probable that the township is better equipped to face the future than it was a year ago.

Key element in the success of the new department will be the attitude of those within it, and of the ratepayers whose taxes support it. As Vine told the meeting; it will not be sufficient merely to forgive the mistakes of the past; everyone in the township must forgive and forget.

The opportunity now exists for Stanhope to become the harmonious and pleasant place it was before fire department complications put a dark cloud over the community. By forgetting the past and looking forward to the future, ratepayers can ensure that the fire department issue is finally at an end.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I heartily agree with Creighton Feir's comments regarding the condition of the village streets, except for the places where the railway intersects, which should be covered with hot mix. After all, it's the people's railroad and the mix could be removed if need be.

As for leadership for youth activities, you need look no further than the HHSS. Undoubtedly, there are students capable of supervision and leadership in this area.

Further, an ambitious student might be given the task of picking up the garbage people toss away. Bottles, cans, take-out containers, etc. are in abundance.

At least, constructive criticism will hurt nobody.

To the Editor:

May I please, through you, express my sincere thanks to all the folks who came to our Festival of Fun, August 18, here in Stanhope. It was a rainy day, but that didn't stop them and because of that, we feel our efforts were worthwhile.

I sincerely hope everyone enjoyed themselves.

The Echo welcomes letters to the Editor

Editor's Notebook

by Len Pizzev

Most people who work for newspapers will tell you that among a newspaper's many functions, one of the most important is that it provides a public forum for the exchange of ideas and opinions. Through letters to the editor, readers have an opportunity to speak out on issues they feel are important. Newspapers provide this space freely, and in most cases, letters to the editor columns are among the most popular and well read sections papers carry.

But whether the newspaper is as large as the Toronto Star or as small as the Haliburton County Echo, certain ground rules apply to the publication of letters to the editor. The rules are simple, but they must be observed, not only for purposes of consistency but for purposes of legal protection.

From time to time, letters to the editor arrive at the Echo that do not bear a signature. The most recent came last week, in response to an editorial about liquor laws that appeared in the August 8 issue of the Echo. The letter was well written, flawlessly typed, and made some important points in support of the position that had been expressed in that editorial. The letter did not appear in the paper however, for the simple reason that it was not signed. The author of the letter clearly believed the points expressed were worth making and worth sharing, but was afraid of the consequences of attaching a name to those comments. And so the letter could not be published.

The reason is simple enough. If a paper publishes an unsigned letter, it has no legal protection from lawsuits that may develop as a result of that letter. If a letter is signed, the author must take primary responsibility for its contents. If a newspaper publishes slanderous remarks about people or organizations, however, even if the remarks are contained within a signed letter to the editor, it is not exempt from prosecution under libel and slander laws. The key matter then becomes what does or does not fall into the realm of fair comment.

It's a complicated issue that fortunately comes up rarely in the lives of newspaper editors and publishers. But because the possibility of lawsuit is always lurking in the background when letters make comments about people, councils and other organizations, letters can only be accepted with the understanding that they will be edited, if necessary, to conform to standards of fair, reasonable, and legally acceptable comment.

Leaving aside the legal reasons for requiring that a letter to the editor be signed, however, comments carry more weight when the person making them is prepared to stand behind them. Signing a letter indicates seriousness, conviction, and a willingness to go on public record with an opinion. Even if it were not legally necessary for letters to the editor to be signed, newspapers would insist that letters be signed for those reasons alone.

Letters to the editor are important, and we welcome them. If you have something to say about any issue in Haliburton County, no matter how small or insignificant it may seem to others, write a letter to the editor. Your opinions will be read, and no doubt, considered by those with whom you share them. Change and improvement often begin with opposing points of view. Make your views known, and you will, in an important way, contribute to a better social and political climate in Haliburton County.

But please, sign the letters. No matter how well written a letter may be, it cannot be printed unless you are prepared to stand behind it publicly.

Feir Play

by Creighton Feir

One Thursday night recently I was sitting on one of the benches downtown and I struck up several conversations with people passing by. During a talk with Jim Ward of Haliburton he was telling me how things have changed. He said that he can well remember when everyone did their shopping on Saturdays, then it was Fridays and now many people have moved to Thursdays including Jim and his wife. We started to reminisce about what it used to be like in Haliburton, years back, on a Saturday night. At that time if you wanted a parking place on the main drag on Saturday night you brought your car down on Saturday afternoon, parked it, went home and had supper and then returned later to your car. Saturday night was the one night of the week that young and old alike would set aside to come downtown to spend the evening and meet their friends. Some people made a habit of sitting in their cars to watch everyone else parade up and down the street. Those days are gone now and Saturday nights are like any other night of the week.

I seem to like all kinds of music with the exception of rock and roll and disco. Rock and roll is still very far out as far as I am concerned, but lately I am finding that disco music doesn't sound too bad after all. While driving along the other day in my car there was a program of disco music on the air and I have to admit that I really enjoyed it. It's hard for me to say that I enjoy all disco music because I don't, but some of it sounds pretty good to me. If I keep working on it there is a slim chance that rock and roll could sound good to me.

Rollertek which features roller skating to disco music at the Haliburton curling rink, is really catching on. Open five nights a week, Tuesday through to Saturday, Rollertek has proven to be very popular with locals and visitors. The largest crowd in attendance was 160 with the second largest being 130 and the average turnout is around the 100 mark. Many people have enjoyed many an evening of skating to disco music and it's been a great thing for the young people who are always looking for something to do.

The Kinsmen Club of Haliburton will be having their draw on a 1979 Monte Carlo car at a dance to be held at Haliburton on Labour Day, Saturday, September 1. The car is usually on display on the main street in Haliburton and tickets are available from Curry Motors Limited, Cliff Dawson Insurance Agency and from any member of the Kinsmen Club.

According to the Toronto Star, "Meatballs is in the grave". Meatballs, the recently released comedy about a slap-happy summer camp, has already established an all-time box office record for a Canadian-made film, producers John Dunning and Andre Lonk of Haliburton films announced recently. Forty days after its release, they said, the film had grossed more than $25,600,000 in North America, Dunning said, adding that 2.6 million of this came from Canadian box-office sales. The film is at the Uptown and Imperial. "Obviously the film will pay handsomely to its backers," said Dunning. The initial investment for Meatballs was made by Haliburton Films, the Canadian Film Development Corp. and Famous Players. The film was then sold to a group of investors from western Canada.

We are certainly amazed and impressed with the interest that the cottagers in Haliburton County take in local affairs. This is a healthy situation and their participation and new ideas really help to push this county ahead. Some cottagers that we have been talking to, feel that they should be allowed to vote by mail. We can't see too much wrong with this idea but I think that we all must agree that it's a long way off. Every cottager who is a ratepayer has the right to vote. We can't see anything wrong with having a cottager or two on the council, but there is one problem. It would mean that the whole shape of future municipal elections could be controlled by residents who live elsewhere. In this day and age with so many pressing problems, the reeve, deputy reeve and councillors should all live in the immediate area. With so many things happening in the area at the present time, it's impossible for someone for instance, who lives in Toronto, to be present when a decision may have to be made at a moment's notice. If a cottager lives here all year round, that's a different story and some new blood with new ideas might add a great deal to our local communities.

I don't know about you but I find that the Echo is like a book of knowledge. How many times has someone asked you about this or about that and if you haven't got the answer you go and look it up in the Echo. Possibly it's about an event that is coming up, maybe one that is over with it could be a council matter or something on the local sports scene. After I take the Echo home on a Wednesday, I am surprised at just how many times during the following week that I have to refer to the pages of this newspaper for details on certain matters. In other words, you're lost without a copy of the Haliburton County Echo.

The Haliburton County Fair held recently in Minden seemed to be one of the better shows in the lengthy history of the fair. Some of the people from the county have been heard to remark that the County Fair had been slipping in recent years. This was possibly true but this year the fair board came up with a much better show.

We are heading into the home stretch as far as the tourist season is concerned. The Canadian National Exhibition is underway and business has dropped off a great deal compared with the last two weeks of July and the first two weeks of August. The weather was really warm in July but it has been much cooler in August.

Alongquinn Park Review

The Ontario Provincial Park's Council, a body set up by the government to monitor public opinion and make recommendations concerning the provincial parks, met last week in Huntsville to hear submissions. The Chamber and the County Economic Development Commission each presented briefs pointing out our concerns.

The Ministry of Natural Resources had suggested that possibly the Townships of Clyde and Bruton be dropped from Algonquin Park and the main content of our presentations were in opposition to that concept. Among other considerations, the fact that a grant in lieu of taxes would be lost to Dysart et al was a major concern. Since two thirds of that grant is for education, and applies directly to that County School Board, it would have an impact on every taxpayer in the county.

Since governments are being called on of late to make spending cuts, the practice of attempting to shift the expenses from one body to another is becoming common place. Municipalities are at the end of the line on this trip, since they have nowhere else to pass it to. Government must cut their spending, but the savings must be real - not just shifted off to another level of government to deal with.

Other briefs presented at Huntsville came from the Snowmobile Federation in favour of allowing some snowmobiling in the park, cottage lease holders in the park who are threatened with discontinuation of their leases, the canoe outfitters in the park who are faced with the same threat, and a local trapper who felt that hunting and trapping should be re-established in the park. He contended that there were now more healthy deer and fur-bearing animals outside the park boundaries than within due to the artificial environment that has been maintained.

It was interesting to note that although this meeting was held in Huntsville, there were no representatives made from anyone in that immediate area.

No Phone at Caboose

Moving the Haliburton Caboose information centre to its new location adjacent to the Rails' End Gallery has certainly increased the activity at that centre, but it has also created some temporary problems. Since the initial move the centre has been awaiting reconnection of Hydro and now they have lost their phone. A dump truck with the box raised cleaned out the telephone lines on Friday, and with the repair crews on strike it is questionable when they may have much needed communication lines open.

Are you getting as fed up with strikes as we are? Should resort and motel owners have to lose business, and the travelling public be inconvenienced because Bell and their employees can't agree? In the meantime there are a lot of unemployed people who would love to have those jobs without the increases they are striking for. If there were only some way the public could strike against the unions to put them out of business or at least force them to take a responsible attitude.

A New Newspaper

What another one! Not exactly. Hillen Enterprises enter in Bancroft have just published their second edition of the "Centennial Revue" in conjunction with Bancroft's Centennial celebrations. The paper is produced only once a month and is distributed free at a number of stores in our eastern townships. We are pleased that our Chamber has been asked to contribute a column to their publication beginning with this issue. The paper concentrates on humour and local interest items as opposed to hard news stories.

We offer our best wishes to Bill Hillen in this new endeavour and thank him for including us in their plans.

Coming Events

The Haliburton Kinsmen Club are holding a dance on Saturday, September 1 featuring "Kid Kelly" at the Dysart Community Centre. The Kinsmen will hold the draw for the "Monte Carlo" they have been selling tickets on throughout the summer. The dance admission is only $5.00 per couple payable at the door. A few tickets on the car are still available at Kennedy Surplus and Dawson's Insurance.

On August 28 the current display of the Best of Ontario Crafts moves out of the Rails' End Gallery to make room for private collection of Eskimo Art on loan from Ray Goulet. It's only there till the September 15, so don't miss it.

Winter Events

We keep trying. Every time the Ministry of Industry and Tourism reminds us that it is time to let them know our events for the next season we appeal to you in this column for information. Each time we are overwhelmed with silence and must begin our detective work to find out what is being planned for when.

Please - we have until September 1 to advise the Ministry of our planned events for the months of December, January and February. Phone us at 286-1760, save us some time, and be assured that your event is listed in the winter book.

Late Flash - Tartan is Here

Our new shipment of Haliburton Highlands Tartan just arrived from Scotland and is now available in wholesale lots of 10 yards or more, or retail in any quantity at $19.95 per yard. For more information call the Chamber office.

Pic of the Past

Bill Smiley

Hot nuff fer ya? By the time this appears in print, I may be looking through drawers for my longjohns. That would be typical of the weather in this Canada of ours.

But as I write, holed up in my study with the drapes drawn and the fan blowing, we're well into the second week of one of those scorching summer sessions that we masochists in this country endure and even enjoy, in a perverted way.

We suffer, but we suffer with a certain pride. One wilted citizen will say to another dripping one, "Ain't it a corker?" And the other will respond, almost joyously, "Never seen the beat of it."

On the streets of our towns and cities, we duck from one air-conditioned haven to another, catching our death of cold in the process. Smart people take a heavy sweater to the supermarket so they won't freeze their extremities, and peel right down to those extremities as soon as they get back into the street.

What a crazy way to live. Six months ago, and six months from now, we'll be doing the opposite, ducking from one over-heated place to another, and bragging about the cold.

I wonder if there is another nation in the world that talks as much about the weather as does ours. I doubt it. Perhaps it is because we are rather shy and inarticulate when it comes to opening a conversation.

As a result, we commence with, "Cold Nuff fer ya?", or, "Hot nuff fer ya?", and can nearly always be certain that the person spoken to, even a complete stranger, as long as he's a Canadian, will respond with something like, "Real brute, izen it?" This retort covers extreme days in either winter or summer.

If an immigrant, unfamiliar with our opening gambits, makes a sensible remark about the weather, such as, "My, it is unpleasantly warm today, is it not?" we go right on the defensive, with, "Ah, this is just right. Wait'll the real heat wave hits. It'll slaughter ya."

Or if a similarly untutored foreigner, just trying to be pleasant, says in February, "Mein Gott, zis is a cold country in winter, Heint?" we snarl, "Nah, she's mild this year. Ya shoulda been here last winter. Forty below for three weeks straight."

Yes, there is a certain arrogance in Canadians when it comes to our weather. Nobody much likes rain and wind. But when it comes to hot and cold, we are fascinated by temperatures. We exchange weather reports. We remember winters and summers as far back as thirty years.

If some unusually urbane Canadian ventures to utter a, "Nice day, eh?", we usually come back with a yabbut. "Yabbut there's a big blizzard comin' in from the west." Or, "Yabbut it's supposed to rain all next week."

Canadians know, without being told, that if a winter week has been sunny and sparkling, it's going to snow and blow on the weekend. They are positive that, if the summer has been ideal, warm and dry and delightful so far, it will be cold and wet when it's their turn to go on holidays.

The weather is so much a part of our national psyche that it's a wonder it hasn't crept into politics. On second thought, it has. Elections are carefully geared so that they don't occur in midsummer, when nobody gives a damn about politics, nor in mid-winter, when it's too cold to get out to vote.

One of these days, so enthralled are we with the weather, that we'll probably have a couple of guys running for prime minister who are weather forecasters. And the one who gives us the most horrendous forecasts will win in a walk.

I am not sneering at my fellow Canadians' obsession with the weather. I am as bad as the next. There's nothing I enjoy more, on a winter day, than blustering in from the cold, tearing off my boots and overcoat, and asking all and sundry, "Did you ever see such a rotten winter?" And sure enough, someone will retort, "Yabbut we had two feet more snow this time last year."

In summer, I sizzle around the golf course (my body, not my score) and whine with the

by Bill Scott M.P.

The Right Honourable John George Diefenbaker died at his Ottawa home on Thursday morning, August 16. The Chief was eighty-three, just 34 days away from his 84th birthday on September 18. The apparent cause of death was a massive heart attack, which occurred at about 6:30 a.m. Mr. Diefenbaker, always an early riser, had been up since 5:30 and was working in his study for about an hour when death occurred. His body was discovered by a friend who was staying with him and his housekeeper.

Mr. Diefenbaker was the oldest parliamentarian in Canada, having been continuously a Member of Parliament since his election in 1940, although he had run unsuccessfully twice before, in the general elections of 1925 and 1926, before finally being elected in the general election of March 26, 1940. He had been re-elected in every subsequent election since, most recently of course on May 22 of this year, which was the 13th consecutive general election that he had successfully contested.

The high point of Mr. Diefenbaker's parliamentary and public career came in 1956, when he was chosen national leader of the Progressive Conservative party of Canada, and a year later, in June of 1957, led the party to victory in the general election of that year and became the first Progressive Conservative prime minister that the country had had since 1935. Mr. Diefenbaker had also ran unsuccessfully for the leadership twice before being chosen in 1956, but in 1957, his losing days seemed to be behind him. The following spring, in March, 1958, he called a general election and appealed to the people for a strong mandate. The results of that election made history. John Diefenbaker and the Progressive Conservative party were returned by an overwhelming 208 out of 265 House of commons seats. No prime minister in Canadian history had before, or has since, ever won such a majority.

Throughout his long public career, first as a criminal lawyer in Saskatchewan and then as a parliamentarian, Mr. Diefenbaker was most noted for his concern for the ordinary, common man. This was best exemplified in what I consider to be his greatest parliamentary achievement, the Canadian Bill of Rights of 1960. This still remains as the only time in the constitutional history of Canada that the fundamental rights and freedoms of the individual have ever been codified in Canadian statutes.

The Bill of Rights was what John Diefenbaker really believed in his heart and what he practiced throughout his entire life. When the Bill of Rights declares that the human rights of all Canadians are the right of the individual to life, liberty, security of the person and enjoyment of property and the right not to be deprived of them except by the due process of law, and that the individual has the right to equality and protection before the law, it is John Diefenbaker talking about something he really believed in and practiced all his life. When the Bill of Rights states that the fundamental freedoms of all Canadians are freedom of religion, freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and association, and freedom of the press, it is John Diefenbaker talking about those great freedoms that he fought all his life to defend and preserve.

The Chief was without a doubt, truly one of the great Canadians of our history. He dominated the political life of the nation for almost four decades. A social progressive as prime minister, he was responsible for many of the reforms and improvements which we now take for granted. Under his administration came such things as ARDA and the rehabilitation of Canadian agriculture, the Northern Vision and a re-orientation of Canadians' thinking about the importance of the North, the development of the modern infrastructure of Canada (the roads, dams, harbours, bridges, airports), the Winter Works projects, the Trans-Canada Highway, and in the economic field, the first practical application of Keynesian economics in the management of the nation's finances.

Above all, John George Diefenbaker was first, last and foremost, a Canadian. Born in Neustadt, Ontario, of German and Scottish parents, he always proudly referred to himself as just a "Canadian" and stoutly maintained that that was all that was required; Canadians didn't have to call themselves French-Canadians, German-Canadians, Irish-Canadians, Italian-Canadians, Polish-Canadians, etc. One Canada, one nation of one people, all Canadians, was his life-long credo. John Diefenbaker is probably the one person who was principally responsible for making the "hyphenated-Canadian" concept, as he always derisively called it, obsolete in Canada.

John George Diefenbaker, 1985-1979. Parliamentarian, statesman, humanitarian, champion of justice, defender of the common man, historian, author, orator, traveller, a genuine, sincere, proud, loyal, great Canadian. We will never see his like again.

Double windmill pitch ends season for Legion last Wednesday

LaRue, Currys to meet in finals as Legion loses on rule infraction call

LaRue Motors and Curry Motors will meet next Wednesday and Thursday to decide who will be the Haliburton men's recreational softball champions, following elimination semi-final matches last week.

Both of those teams, after winning by slim margins in their respective games against Haliburton Legion and Haliburton Lumber, will play to the best two out of three wins to decide the league championship team. But last week's games proved to be a very fitting and exciting end to some outstanding softball by two of the league's teams. In the first game of the semi-finals, LaRue Motors and Haliburton Lumber met. The Lumber team had already beaten LaRue's twice in the last month, and their style of play had improved greatly, so some people sitting in the stands looked for a possible upset.

But LaRue's started things off in the first inning, scoring six quick runs by Brian Mulholland, Tom Curry, Scott LaRue, John Robinson, Sid Cooper, and Tom Robinson. Haliburton Lumber couldn't start anything in the second inning, but managed to hold the LaRue squad back from further scoring. The Lumber team's bats began working in the third, when Gary McKnight and Roger Bain tagged up at home plate, following hits by them and Derrell Stamp.

The rest of the game proved to be one of the most exciting this year, as neither team made any notable gains until Haliburton Lumber scored another run in the fifth inning. McKnight was once again the scorer, and was backed up in the hitting department by Bain. But that run was more than answered at the bottom of the inning when Sid Cooper thundered a home run over the left field gate. A run by Tom Robinson resulted in the LaRue increase to five points.

Dwight Sisson scored for Haliburton Lumber in the sixth inning after he and Jim Scheffee notched singles. The team held LaRue's in the bottom half, and began to look as though they would come back in the final inning when McKnight and Bain, who notched a triple, scored runs again. Ken Lewis smashed a double in the inning as well.

But defensive pressure by LaRue's held the Lumber team at six points, resulting in their elimination. Haliburton Lumber, sitting at the bottom of the standings all season long, gave an outstanding exhibition of fight-back ball throughout the latter half of the season, and several times proved they were not a team to be ignored.

The same now holds true for the Haliburton Legion, who played a game against Curry Motors that was, to put it lightly, a real pressure cooker. The game was one of the most high scoring during the season, let alone the finals, and finished with an unusual twist that brought players on the Legion team off the field shaking their heads in amazement. They lost the game due to technicality.

Curry Motors, who were short two men and had to play with other teams' players, got on the scoreboard first, scoring four runs in the opening inning. Bernie Nicholls, the Legion pitcher, walked four players in the inning. The runs were notched by Eric Martin, Peter Lymburner, Kevin Sisson and Art Dawson.

The Legion came back on the bottom half, with Hugh Nichol leading the way with a single, and doubles were marked by Andy Salvatori, Dick McLean and Roy Scott. It was those first three batters who came up with three runs for the Legion squad. Curry's returned the fire in the next inning when Martin, Lymburner and Paul Morissette scored runs, but again the Legion reciprocated.

A double by Salvatori and singles by Nichol and McLean brought the team's total to six. Nicholls put the squad in front when he nailed a home-run, his sixth of the year in this league. From this point until the sixth inning, the game was completely dominated by the Legion, as they scored eight unanswered runs, by Nichol, Salvatori twice, McLean twice, Nicholls twice and a triple and run by Roger Still. Mike Blake also tagged up.

The end indeed looked near for Curry's as the final innings approached. But the apparent is not always the result, as the Motors scored a phenomenal 11 runs in two and a half innings. Runs were marked by nearly every member of the team, and it was evident that the incredible number of walks, by pitchers Nicholls and Salvatori, eight of them in two innings, hurt the Legion very badly indeed. But the climax was yet to come.

It was almost a classic pressure play. The Legion was faced with two outs at the bottom of the seventh inning. The score was tied at 17, and the crux of the game rested upon whether Curry's could score the tie-breaking run or not. If the Legion could have held them, the game would have gone into extra innings. With Mark Schell up at bat, and runners on first and third, coach McLean consulted with pitcher Nicholls, and it was decided to walk Schell in favour of the next batter. But the end of the game came when Nicholls went into his wind-up to Schell, and double looped in his windmill pitch. Umpire Ron Mailman spotted the illegal pitch and called Nicholls on it. A ball went to the batter, and all runners could advance one base, which sent the man on third, home. The result was a Curry victory.

Since the game, there has been some controversy surrounding the call, but the rulebook by which Mailman was umpiring the game, states the rule very clearly. Rule six, section four, paragraph d, of the book says, the pitcher "does not make more than one revolution of the arm in the windmill pitch," and the effect, just below, clearly states, "the ball is dead." A ball is called on the batter. Base runners are entitled to advance one base without liability to be put out." As the saying went, "a win is a win."

So with that over, the final games will be held next week. There is no entry charge, and any fans who attend are assured of some exciting ball. See you there.

Little Britain squeaks by Minden to take the championship

by Helen Burk

The second annual Haliburton County Ladies Softball Tournament was held this past weekend with some super ball games being played at the Haliburton ball park.

In the first game, Haliburton was up against last year's champs the Oakwood A and Oakwood was too strong for the Haliburton team with Oakwood winning 15-3. This put Oakwood in the A division and Haliburton in the B division.

In the second game of the tournament, the Little Britain team took on Coboconk. The Little Britain team was too strong for Coboconk, winning 12-5.

In the third game, L'Amable took on the Paudash Blue Jays and L'Amable was too strong a team for Paudash defeating them 33-1.

In what proved to be the most exciting game, last year's champs, Oakwood, took on the Minden Homestead team. Oakwood took a 5-2 lead in the second inning and the Minden ladies tied it up in the bottom of the seventh to send it into extra innings. Ann Hewson led off the top of the eighth with a triple and Helen Burk hit a long fly ball to right field to second Ann in for the winning run. Marlene Wilson was the outstanding player for Minden while Ann Hewson pitched the best game of her career. Joan Clayton took the loss. This win put Minden in the championship game.

Haliburton took on Coboconk for the consolation trophy and Haliburton won 15-5. This win put Haliburton in the consolation game against Paudash. Wendy Roberts was the most valuable player for Haliburton while Nancy Brink got the win.

The game between Little Britain and L'Amable on Sunday morning was to give the winning team the right to go to the championship game against Minden. This was a close game with Little Britain having a 4-3 lead in the fifth inning but in the sixth, Little Britain broke open for seven runs to win the game 11-5.

In the consolation game, Haliburton was too strong for the Paudash team and won the game easily 25-8. Nancy Maughan was the winning pitcher. Betty Whiteway was the most valuable player for Haliburton.

The championship game had Minden Homestead taking on the Little Britain team. Little Britain hit early, scoring seven runs in the first inning but the Minden team fought back and the final score was 12-9 for Little Britain. Joan Paul was the most valuable player for Minden while Cindy Mark won it for Little Britain.

The tournament committee would like to thank all their supporters and umpires for all the time they spent helping to make this a great success. Thanks also go to all the merchants and tournament workers who spent all their spare time in making this the second annual tournament, a great success. All names of the donors will be mentioned next week.

A different kind of hunter:

Lloyd Priest has made a vocation out of supplying fishermen with the best in bait

by Joe Banks

Lloyd Priest checks a minnow trap

Lloyd Priest likes to keep the customers happy. His business is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and he ensures that he always has a fresh and plentiful supply of merchandise.

But the job does have its snags. It's difficult keeping his product alive, and catching the things can become tricky, but the customers always come back to Lloyd's Bait and Tackle.

It's not a big place, Lloyd's shop. It doesn't have glittering fishing poles dangling by huge display racks, it doesn't have a long glass display case that holds every imaginable reel on the market, and it doesn't have wall to wall carpeting and air conditioning. But Lloyd's Bait does reputedly have the best bait in Haliburton County, and a lot of character behind it.

Priest, 56, operates his business out of his home near West Guilford, and his bait has become special because he catches all of it himself, including minnows, frogs and some crayfish. His worms are brought in, but it was this popular bait that actually started his business.

Back in the early fifties, when he was working for the I.E. Weldwood sawmill near Kennis Lake, he used to run bait "trap lines" around the area. His children sold garden worms to tourists passing by, and in a small way, Priest began becoming a bait dealer. "We continued on, becoming bigger all the time," but he never gave up his job with the lumber company until 1965, when he injured his back on the job, and was faced with an early retirement.

"People have come from all over the county to get bait here," he says

"That's when I really went into it," Priest says with a memorable smile. The shop, and the supplying of it, has become a full-time job for Priest, but he claims it's only "a sideline," as it accounts for only a portion of his total income. For all intents and purposes, his seasonal business is successful, but he makes no bones about where the money comes from.

"Everything I own, the tourist pays for. I couldn't get any of my stuff if it weren't for the tourist."

What makes Priest really different from other bait dealers in the county is his hard work at gathering and keeping live bait. Sometimes, trapping may mean hiking miles into the bush to an isolated beaver pond to check his minnow traps, or to the middle of a stinking swamp to net frogs. His customers mostly consist of cottagers who have been in the area for some time, and have come to realize that Lloyd's Bait always has the best minnows and frogs for their fishing needs. "People have come from all over the county to get bait here," says Priest half-modestly.

Priest sells commercial bait as well, keeping a stock of lures, hooks and line. He has refrained from adding poles and reels to his inventory, because the prices have risen and the business is only seasonal. Any stock he gets in this fall, he says, won't move until spring.

"I spend so dang much money getting stuff in, but I try to keep the biggest sellers in," says Priest. His imported worms are also getting expensive, currently costing $60 for two flats of 1000. He's had to raise the price of his worms recently to $1.25, but they are the most popular bait, since most parents will purchase them for their children when fishing.

Minnows are extremely popular bait as well, and Priest has a large cooler where he keeps various-sized minnows, small, medium, or large, at different prices for a dozen. The selling, and the care of the fish, and frogs, is not easy, but the real trick is catching them. And over the years, as he gained more experience and confidence as a woodsman, Priest has established himself quite a system of bait gathering.

In finding the best spots for obtaining good bait fish, like beaver ponds, Priest wades into the grassy flooded parts and will judge accordingly. He'll take a small piece of bread and throw it into a particular area of water, "and watch for any movement." If he sees something, he'll set a trap in that area and let it sit for a day. More often than not, the instinct and good sight pays off, and into his large bait pail, several river chub, shiners and regular minnows will be transferred.

"I was right in there with those snakes and frogs and turtles"

He's invented an "airator", a small device similar to any oxygen-producing pump in an aquarium. The device supplies the minnows with oxygen while they are being transferred by truck to the master tank at his shop. Remarkably, it's fashioned from a car heater motor, part of a washing machine spindle and a record player, and is powered off the truck's battery. "Without that," says Priest, proudly displaying the home-made instrument, "those minnows wouldn't live very long." Other electronic gadgetry he employs are C.B. radios, one as a base and one in his truck. If a customer requests a certain type of bait, and his wife Wilda finds that are none left, she'll radio Priest while he's in the field to bring them home.

And indeed, Priest is certified in his business. He is a licensed vendor, "not just one of these fly-by-night operations," holds a trapper's license, and a dip net license.

The biggest problem with the business is not legalities and red-tape, it is the large amounts of time the Priests have to spend at their house during tourist season, never having the chance to go out fishing or enjoying the summer themselves. "The only time we close up," says Priest, "is when both carnivals are on and for the airshow." And the most obvious problem, actually going out and gathering bait, can cause the occasional anxiety.

Because he opens on May 1, Priest is faced with the task of going out to his bait lines, setting the traps, and gathering them in the spring, the time when blackflies become extremely thick. He recalls one day, during a "hot spell," when he waded waste deep into a beaver pond to obtain a trap, and caught his foot in a rock, resulting in his falling into the swampy filth. And he swallowed much of what he got in his mouth. "Oh, it was so stinking hot, and there I was right in there with

Rockhounds invade Wilberforce

Second annual 'Showcase of Canadian Rockhounding' kept mineral hunters happy last weekend

Crystalline mineral

Rockhounds from far and near converged on Wilberforce last weekend for what organizers billed as "the showcase of Canadian Rockhounding."

Rockhounding, of course, is the hobby of collecting, and classifying, minerals and gemstones. It's a fast growing recreation for a large number of Canadians and Americans and last weekend's fair, the second annual event, drew crowds to the Lloyd Watson Centre and the Monmouth arena for three days of swapping, buying, selling, watching and learning.

Featured were displays of minerals and gems put on by dealers in the rockhound field, and by local hobbyists, field trips, a rock swap, gold panning demonstrations as well as demonstrations of lapidary carving and silversmithing.

Overall attendance at the weekend fair was said to be down slightly over last year, perhaps of inclement weather Saturday.

Rounding out the weekend's activities was a dance Saturday night that attracted an enthusiastic crowd to the Lloyd Watson Centre.

those snakes and frogs and turtles." A foreseeable problem with Priest's business is the effect acid rain will have on it. Already, he claims, he has gone to a pond where he can remember "catching five or 600 frogs during a season," and came back this year "and didn't spot a one."

"Now there's something wrong there, I don't know what, but there's something..."

As well, he says "the year has been a poor one for me," in terms of business, and thinks that the price of gas is prompting people to buy bait closer to home.

But Lloyd Priest is undaunted. A veteran woodsman, he says his greatest love is hiking in the wild, where he spends so much of his work time meticulously gathering aquatic animals so others may enjoy fishing, and relaxing. It might seem like an unusual way to make a living, but Lloyd Priest, when he's in the middle of a swamp or beaver pond with dip-net in hand, is smiling.

BY-LAW NO. 79-17

A BY-LAW TO AMEND RESTRICTED AREA BY-LAW NO. 78-6,
AS AMENDED BY BY-LAW NO. 79-15,

OF THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MONMOUTH

WHEREAS the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Monmouth has given further consideration to the provisions of Restricted Area By-law No. 78-6, as amended, specifically those provisions which serve to regulate and restrict the use of lands within those areas of the Municipality which are zoned within the Rural (RU) Zone and the Seasonal Residential (SR) Zone classifications;

COUNTY ECHO FAMILY

Extendicare News

by Dr. W.O. Anderson

August 9 was one of our red letter days because of our bus trip to be the guests in the home of our former, Mrs. Miriam Lewis, situated on the shore of Dark Lake near the pretty hamlet of Wilberforce, surpassing all other places in Ontario for its beauty. Across Dark Lake from the Lewis home is the former I.B. & O railway grade, the focus of many pleasant memories, the only right of way in Ontario where it was reputed the conductor would stop the train for the passengers to pick berries or shoot game. The "I" is for Ironton, the "B" for Bancroft, and believe it or not the "O" is for Ottawa. Trust Mrs. Lewis, our gracious hostess, to have such interesting items around her, that can boast of plants' beauty far exceeding Extendicare's. With her help, and that of Mrs. Marjorie Fedorchuk and our bus driver, Mrs. Pat Burk, it was a lovely picnic of deliciously barbecued hamburgers barbecued on the Lewis's ingenious barbecue. Thanks very much Mrs. Lewis.

Another exciting outing followed a few days later involving a voyage through the two Peterborough locks in the Trent Severn waterway, running from Lake Ontario at Trenton to Georgian Bay at Port Severn. No one told us before, that two of the locks in this system were located in Peterborough and we didn't think to ask until this outing. Lock 19, are the world famous lift locks, an engineering marvel, that where one basin goes up, another twin is built to go down, in balance with each other. The other lock 20, Ashburnham, is an ordinary lock familiar to everyone near the centre of Peterborough. That was our exciting voyage through these two. Lack of sprightliness on our part was nicely supplemented by the helpers, Mrs. Marjorie Fedorchuk, Mrs. Eileen Morrison and our bus driver, Mrs. Pat Burk. This scheduled cruise was held up by an obliging cruise captain who waited departure until our late arrival. Lunch of hot dogs and fresh fruit at Beavermead Park helped very much, and it was a lot of fun.

Saturday, August 18, was Stanhope's turn to be the greatest township in Haliburton County after their citizens spent hours of their spare time and effort to furnish themselves with a building for recreation and library and thus splendidly motivated. As invited guests by the courtesy of Mrs. Ella Gillies, she, Mrs. Ann Barker and other Stanhope residents thoughtfully did their best to make our stay with them enjoyable, and it was. One of our "Gang", Charlie Fader, who was a guest of honour closely approaching the close of the first century of his life and getting ready to embark on the second, is indeed an occasion to celebrate as he surely did by being chosen to cut the ribbon admitting all to their splendid facilities. When he finally comes to that last day of his first century we are getting ready to celebrate with him. Charlie is a very nice cheerful gentleman. The beef barbecue was something to behold as well as to partake of its product and took the form of two motorized home-made spits each bearing a hind quarter, slowly turning to do the cooking "to a turn" a feature that epitomizes rural living. What more could a person want? It also seemed that these folk put themselves out to treat the senior citizens with utmost urgency. Thank you gratefully, Township of Stanhope.

A display of crafts drew admiring comments from Stanhope ratepayers who turned up for the township's first ever fun day, Saturday. The event featured a beef barbecue and several other attractions, and concluded with a dance Saturday night.

The Dave Orr's and Wayne Suggitt's journeyed to Winkler, Manitoba early in the month to take part in the tractor pull competitions there. The tractor used was a custom-made tractor in the mini class tractor pull. The tractor was built by Clifford Suggitt and boys. Dave Orr managed to win a third prize in the draw and then went on to Portage LaPrairie for the east-west championships. Dave got a fourth prize in the 1550 lb. class and Wayne Suggitt got a fourth prize in the 1750 lb. class draw. The families enjoyed good weather on their trip and enjoyed the "draws".

Sincere sympathy to Grant

Benson and daughter, Joy Armstrong in the passing of May - a devoted mother and wife. May passed away in Ross Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

Congratulations to Brian and Cheryl Hannivan on the arrival of their wee little girl, also to Bonnie and Grant Quinn who have a baby boy.

We had the pleasure of visiting two very active ladies in Fenelon Falls on Tuesday evening. We called on Alma Hunt, who is 90 and has had two serious operations since spring, and her sister, Lillie Penrose, who is spending the summer with Alma, all the way from Thousand Palms, California. Lillie is 92, has had both hips broken but gets about very well again. Two spry seniors you would never meet!

Rev. and Mrs. Don Hill and Donnie, pastor of Ridgeway Pentecostal Church and former pastor here, renewed old acquaintances last week. They were dinner visitors of Mrs. A. Marles a few times, and also in attendance were Dr. Wm. White of Calgary, Alberta, his mother, Mrs. Major White of Fenelon Falls, Mr. and Mrs. R. Fisher, and Walter Marles of Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Marles and daughter of Peterborough.

so small pieces won't be such a waste.

Mrs. Eva Smith of Tory Hill suggests a good summer "pick me up" drink which we all probably ignore. Save leftover tea in a container in the fridge. It can be "gussied up" to taste, it's free and just what is needed on a hot day.

Mrs. Mary Crosswell of Toronto has two uses for tin cans. The 28 oz. pumpkin cans, which are well finished on the inside, are excellent when camping to cook up to four eggs. Also, asparagus can be efficiently cooked by boiling the can 2/3 full of water and adding the stalks upright. Cover with a second can, leaving 1/4 inch air space at one side. The bottom cooks in the water while the tender tops steam cook.

Send your ideas in and enter our contest. Send to Haliburton Echo, Box 360, Haliburton, K0M 1S0.

Leftover bits of soap are unsightly but can be used up in several different ways.

Boil down broken up pieces with a small quantity of water until it becomes mushy. Simmer until excess moisture disappears. Put in an old mug or the brush shaver. Pour into muffin tins or other small containers for new bars.

A facecloth can be transformed into a cute bath mitt with an inside pocket to hold small chunks of soap. Faces made of button eyes, scraps of material for smiles and bits of wool for hair will make a favourite bathtime friend. Little ones will get sudsy clean and your soap scraps will find the mark.

A final idea for them is to keep a few on hand for camping trips. Invariably the soap gets left behind

We began another week of fun at Hyland Crest with fun and fitness, Monday morning. The champion in the dart game was Mrs. Deumo, with an excellent score of 280. We sang our usual good morning songs and also our new Hyland Crest song. We ended with a vigorous game of kick the ball.

At lunch time, Mr. Ship celebrated his birthday when we presented him with a nicely decorated cake and sang "Happy Birthday to Frank."

Later on in the afternoon, the ladies went downstairs to the craft room to work on their many bazaar items. Tea and goodies were served and everyone enjoyed an afternoon of being useful. At this point I'd like to mention that our craft display, which we entered in the Haliburton County Fair, took first prize. We at Hyland Crest are certainly pleased, and getting a red ribbon, and prize money certainly makes our efforts worthwhile.

Tuesday morning at 10 a.m. several residents went to the chapel to worship with Rev. Denny of the Haliburton Anglican Church. Mr. Ray Jenkins played the organ while we sang our praises.

After lunch we went to the auditorium to watch the movies. "The Land of Promise" was all about the South African Republic. This vast republic is five times the size of Britain and is one of the richest countries in the world. It is very rich in minerals, and produces more gold, diamonds and asbestos than any other country. The film took us on a tour, and we saw many of the native customs and dress. We also saw the very poor housing, but were told that these people have an abundance of food and are happy. The republic is made up of African negroes, white people and east Indians. They work together to make South Africa a booming nation. There are huge hospitals there and they have the top surgeons and best equipment in the world. In fact the first heart transplant was performed in South Africa. We viewed the many different species of wildlife, and were told how they exist and are protected by the South African government.

"Friendly Touchdown" took us on a trip through South Africa with an Australian rugby team. When this group of athletes were not playing rugby, they toured the many factories and research centres. They visited sheep farms and concluded that half of the world's wool is produced in South Africa and Australia. They won their games and then celebrated in the night clubs before boarding the plane to go back to Australia.

Both these films on South Africa were interesting and informative and showed a great deal of wildlife. The scenery was magnificent and most of those present told me how very much they enjoyed the afternoon at the movies.

Wednesday morning we began the day with our fun and fitness program. We welcomed Mrs. Maude Miller to our happy group. We had a very good turnout and everyone had a good time playing games and exercising to music.

In the afternoon, the ladies went downstairs and worked on their knitting. We chatted and visited over a cup of tea and goodies served after we were finished crafts.

It was a very enjoyable afternoon on Thursday when we welcomed the ladies of Hall's Lake for the afternoon tea party. They served a delicious variety of tea breads and cookies. Mrs. Lil Rawlins was with the group and everyone was very pleased to have her entertain during and after the tea party. We would like to thank the Hall's Lake ladies for making the tea party a most happy event.

Friday, we began with our fun and fitness in the morning.

Later in the afternoon we welcomed two very special guests for sing song. Lenore Rose and Jean Goff sang and played the piano while everyone sang along. These ladies are very talented, and we ended another week with a very enjoyable Friday afternoon.

best of them. "Isn't this brutal? My lawn is baked black." It was 98° in our bedroom last night." And one of the foursome will come back with, "Yabbut remember last summer, when we hadda play in rubber boots and mackinaws?" You can't win.

One of the few Canadians who doesn't care about the weather is my wife. When we had babies, she'd pop into the office in the middle of a blizzard. "What in the Sam Hill are you doing out on a day like this?"

And I'd discover that she'd thought the baby needed some fresh air, and pushed the carriage through the snow for half a mile.

Her indifference to our great national conversation piece infuriates me. We had a bitter quarrel just this week. I'd been out in the car, and told her the guy on the radio said it was 96° downtown. She said she didn't believe him. With a touch of warmth, I repeated what the guy on the radio had said. Ninety-six degrees. Is it too A sign?

"It couldn't be, huh?" "Why not?" "abundant." "Because it doesn't feel that hot. And what does it matter, anyway?" "Signs!" You can see why I blow my top. Matter? What could be more important?

There is no single element in this country that is more important to us Canadians than our love-hate relationship with the weather. In fact, it may be the only thing that will hold this country together, when all the referendums have been taken.

Dorset News

It seems it's always busy folks who find time to do the special little things for others that the not-so-busy ones don't have time to do.

We are happy to report that Orrie Avery is at home after spending some time in Bracebridge hospital.

Recent visitors to the village were Vi Sampson and Maggie Bourdeau of Oshawa who spent some time at their home in Dorset.

And there have been more reunions and family get-togethers. On Monday, August 13, the MacKay progeny gathered at the home of John and Ruth McLennan for a picnic and get-acquainted visit. There were five families of the older generation represented, some coming from a distance. There were cousins from Michigan visiting Ellen and Orrie Avery who were present. Ivan and Noel Porter from Flint, Mich. and Frances and Ken Ruggles, Norma Bustard and Genevieve Curtis of Caro, Michigan enjoyed a visit to the area. Other offspring of the early MacKay clan who were at the picnic were Ken and Sadie Crookford and Morley Crookford of Bracebridge. A very happy time was enjoyed by one and all.

On August 11, the Avery family had a reunion, also held at the home of Ruth and John McLennan. There were 60 Avery descendants at this gathering, the oldest being Len Avery at 86 and the youngest, Kara Lee Gilling of Huntsville. Kara Lee is the great granddaughter of Mrs. Elsie Burk (nee Avery) of Dorset. There were family members from Rochester, N.Y., Niagara Falls and Clarkson. A pot-luck dinner was enjoyed with an abundance of delicious food. One event was a snowball fight made possible by the fact that Ruth had put snowballs in the freezer last winter and took them out for the occasion. Another event was the story telling contest which this year was won by Mrs. Elsie Burk.

Mrs. Jack Clark (Dorothy) of Toronto was a recent visitor at the home of Bill and Barb Clark. Dorothy is Bill's aunt and is at present at her summer cottage in the Carnarvon area.

Father Bradford's mother, Mrs. Nora Bradford of Burks Falls, has been visiting at the rectory.

The members of the Anglican Church wish to thank all those who attended their bake sale on Friday and also all those who so generously donated baking and made money contributions. The ladies who worked on the sale feel gratified that their hard work was worthwhile as the sale was a great success.

PineStone Inn held an official opening last Saturday night for their expanded dining room and lounge. Expansion at the inn, which included the construction of an outdoor pool to compliment the existing indoor facility, had been underway since last fall.

Stanhope Notes

by Alex Stevenson

Stanhope Township's re-organized fire department really got moving at the meeting on Thursday, August 16. Following the remarks of Mr. Norman Vine of the Fire Marshal's Office and the showing of a very informative film, applications were received from a total of 21 prospective members including one lady who, Mr. Vine was quick to point out, was one of a growing number who were taking part in fire-fighting duties. We understand that four other applications are going to be submitted, thus it would appear that the department will be restored to its former strength. And since all will be receiving the course laid down by the Fire Marshal's Office, the township appears to be assured of another dependable firefighting force. With a nucleus of trained men from the firefighters who returned to meet the recent emergency, plus the new interested recruits, it looks as if things are again very promising for the township so far as fire protection is concerned. Most property owners should be happy about this since it affects their pocket books to the extent that their fire insurance premiums are reduced as a result of the presence of a fire department.

The Stanhope Festival of Fun Day was a success in spite of the inclement weather and many people showed up to give support to the effort. Due to the weather, some improvisation was needed but the public accepted the situation very generously and the various activities were well supported. Mr. Charles Fader was the guest of honour at the official opening and this very congenial centennial together with Miss Brenda Couch, area coordinator for Wintario, cut the ceremonial ribbon to declare the Stanhope community centre open. Because of the rainy conditions the opening ceremonies were moved into the community hall, thus making it possible for the guests from Extremis and from Hyland Crest to enjoy the proceedings without being exposed to the elements.

Reeve Jim Harrison welcomed all to the opening of the community centre and in his address pointed out the fact that much was due to the efforts of community minded citizens whose voluntary efforts had made possible the facilities at the Stanhope community centre. Miss Brenda Couch in her remarks as Wintario coordinator for this area referred to the satisfactory relations existing

by Barbara Maunder

A large enthusiastic group of Shadow Lake cottagers attended the association's annual meeting in the Norland Community Hall on Saturday, August 4. President, Tony Keith greeted the men and women and told them of the accomplishments of the association over the past year. Lake water samples, when tested showed no acid rain, good clarity and few impurities and algae growth. Three areas - one from Norland dam along the Gull River to Shadow Lake, another, the river from Shadow Lake to Silver Lake and the stretch of water from Silver Lake to Cobocok will, in the future, have speed zones posted to curtail unsafe boating practices. A by-law will be prepared by Somerville council to impose maximum speed and water skiing restrictions in these areas. Until these regulations are official the only recourse, if someone is travelling at unsafe speeds on the lake or river, is to press charges under the criminal code and if the boater is found guilty there is a two-year jail sentence for dangerous operation of a boat. The cottagers' association is responsible for the red and black channel markers on the lake as well as the buoys marking shallow or dangerous water. All boaters benefit from these navigation markers.

The following list is the new executive of the association, elected at the meeting for the next two years: President - Doris Winchester, past President - Tony Keith; Vice-President - Tom Tennison, and Secretary-Treasurer - John Gilmour. The directors are G. Arbuckle, O. Dingman, R.P. Hall, J. Hunter, B. Saunders, D. Ewen, M. Park, M. Wansbrough, C. Wicks, R. Willmot, D. Waddell, N. Philip, R. Duncan, D. Winchester and M. Brand.

The township clerk will be on holidays from September 10 to 24. The reeve, John Ridgway, will be in the office to assist with any problems etc. during the clerk's absence on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of both weeks (September 11, 13, 15, 18, 20, 22). The building inspector will also be in the township office Saturday mornings - September 15 and 22. The office is open on Saturdays from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon only. Other days 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. A reminder that 1979 taxes are due August 31, 1979. Penalty on unpaid taxes - 1% September 1, 1% October 1, 1% November 1, 1% December 1 and commencing January 1, 1980 an additional 1% per month interest will be charged. Tax money is needed to have an efficient, working council so pay your taxes on time and also avoid extra penalties.

Many Norland people will remember meeting and talking to Mrs. Hudson Sr. while she was in Cobocok visiting from England with her son, Rev. Eric Hudson, former United Church minister of Cobocok Pastoral Charge. Word was received last week of her sudden passing while her son and daughter-in-law were vacationing in England. Our sympathy is extended to all of the Hudson family who now reside in Bancroft.

Editor's note:

The purpose of this column is to provide information of an educational nature to students, parents and all residents of Haliburton County. It will appear every two weeks and deal with: secondary school education, post-secondary school education and activities and special events at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

by Brian Mosgrove

The following letter was received in June by parents of students who will be entering high school for the first time in two weeks. Although this letter was written in June for the benefit of students and parents who are not familiar with the high school, I feel that the information is of interest to everyone.

Dear Parents:

I would like to formally welcome your son or daughter to Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. I hope that his/her attendance at Haliburton's only high school will be profitable in both an educational and personal growth.

Registration will take place at the high school from Monday, August 27 to Friday, August 31 between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. At this time, combination locks, if required, will be available at a cost of $2.00 and a Student Activity Fee of $3.00 is paid by all students. Also, homerooms and lockers will be assigned and individual student timetables will be issued. It is very important that students register the week before the first day of school on Tuesday, September 4, 1979.

An interim report based upon term work will be issued on Monday, November 19, 1979. A set of formal examinations written by all students will be scheduled for Friday, January 18, 1980 to Friday, January 25, 1980, inclusive. Mid-year student achievement reports will be issued on Friday, February 15, 1980. In conjunction with the foregoing reports, two parents' nights will be held at the school on Wednesday, November 21, 1979 and Tuesday, February 19, 1980 from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

Final examinations will be written beginning Monday, June 9, 1980 and ending on Monday, June 16, 1980, inclusive. Final reports will be mailed on Friday, June 27, 1980.

At the end of each school day there is an activity period from 3:05 p.m. - 3:35 p.m. Students are not scheduled in classes at this time, but are encouraged to participate in the wide variety of extra-curricular activities available. It is also a time that can be wisely used by students who are having academic difficulties since all teachers are available for extra help at this time.

Attendance, attitude and achievement are invariably very closely related.

A student absent from school must report to the Main Office on returning and present a note with the following information: 1. Student's name; 2. The date(s) and day(s) of the absence; 3. A clear statement of the reason for the absence; (4) The signature of a parent or guardian. On a routine basis, telephone calls to student's homes regarding attendance will be made.

The atmosphere and attitude that we strive to maintain in the school is "business-like" and, therefore, certain types of apparel are not allowable. Common-sense in a "business-like" environment is the key, but examples of unacceptable dress are: tank tops, halter tops, shorts, shirts with distasteful advertising, slogans of pictures, bare feet, bare midriffs, etc. Any item of dress deemed inappropriate by the principal or vice-principal may result in the student being required to go home and change. I hope that this brief outline of the school's expectation will assist you in your purchases of clothing during the summer.

On the first day of school in September, every student will receive a "Student Handbook". Read this booklet and it will answer many of your questions regarding the secondary school. As well, I should remind you that the 1979-80 Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Course Calendar that you saw in February, contains a great deal of information regarding the school program.

If you have any questions at any time, please do not hesitate to contact me at the school. The school telephone number is 457-2950.

Wilberforce News

by Winnie Schofield

The Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre was the scene of a wedding on July 11. The Rev. Canon Moore Smith united the happy couple with the ceremony taking place in the lounge. Mrs. Cleo Earle provided the music. Miss Kerry Riley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Riley, was married to Stanley Henderson. The bride had fashioned her own beautiful, white gown. The young couple are students at the University of Guelph, where they are studying to become veterinarians. A reception and dance followed the wedding.

Life is full of ups and downs. A dryer full of clothes was forgotten and left at the laundromat. A good Samaritan from Tory Hill took the garments to Mrs. Mathews where they were retrieved by the grateful owner. One up for honesty. The next day, a money jar containing cash donations from the public, that had been given in aid of the Cystic Fibrosis fund, was stolen from the counter at the take-out store; a despicable act that is depressing to contemplate.

Sixty years ago in 1919 great excitement prevailed when a trip was planned to the Toronto exhibition for Wilberforce school children. Free entrance tickets had been provided. To get to Toronto for children's day it was necessary to board a train at Haliburton. Transportation was made in the only car available at that time. It was a Baby Grand Roadster and had but one seat. Somehow or other it conveyed the driver, a teacher, four boys and about six girls from Wilberforce to Haliburton. Some of the youngsters stood on the running boards and others hung on as best they could. At Haliburton the boys were lodged in the jail for the night and probably enjoyed the experience. At 6 a.m. the next morning they entrained for the long ride to Toronto. What excitement for these kids. Three days in the big city. The youngest member was a boy of nine who had his picture taken on the City Hall steps with the mayor. The children were boarded at a large United Church on the Danforth. They had a wonderful time at the Ex. The grandstand show that year was a spectacular pageant of a visit made by the Prince of Wales to India. There were plenty of elephants fitted out in ornamental trappings. Swaying tents on their backs held richly dressed eastern potentates. There hundreds of troops and soldiers and plenty of martial music; the whole thing set against the magnificent background to India. Word got around that the part of the prince was played by an American. Another treat that year was a great banquet on the fifth floor of Eaton's store. This was provided by Lady Eaton for all visiting children. Finally it was all over and the children returned to Wilberforce via the I.B. & O.

Gary and Liane MacDuff

Dogs: Breeding one that's 'special' takes skill, patience, and a little bit of luck

by Joe Banks

Most of us take dogs for granted, but the MacDuffs pay very special attention to their particular canines. And they should.

The young Carnarvon couple breed special kinds of dogs, namely, Lahso-Apsos, a relatively rare and expensive type of animal that is growing in popularity. And the MacDuffs, Gary and Liane, are looking at supplying interested animal-lovers with such a dog.

The MacDuffs breed only the one type of dog, though they are just now beginning to raise a good number of Apsos. It all started out innocently enough - the couple obtained their first pet five years ago, and since then, have built a kennel and began breeding the dogs.

"We looked at other breeds for a while, and we really like this breed (Apso). We like the look of it," says Gary. "We sure didn't get them because they're easy to keep," he jokingly admits.

Indeed, the extremely long hair of the dog make it difficult to keep the animal groomed, and because of the number of puppies and adult dogs the MacDuffs have accumulated, breeding the animals is not an easy task. But the two agree that the reward is worth the effort.

"We're selling our dogs for $175 for males and $200 for females," says Gary. Puppies that aren't sold, are brought down to the House of Puppies in Toronto, where they are purchased by dog lovers and other breeders. Currently the MacDuffs have seven adult Apsos and six puppies, and because there "isn't too many of them around," selling the animals in a centre like Toronto is easier because there is more demand.

The breed, says Gary, has an interesting history. At one time, they were a religious symbol for monks in ancient Tibet, and were often used as a type of guard dog. The animal's characteristic long hair has made it widely regarded among dog lovers, and especially with the MacDuffs.

"We're only renting a house now, so the kennels aren't well set up," says Gary, who eventually hopes to raise and breed dogs as a full-time profession. His wife also wants to "get into" the grooming aspect of the profession full-time. Because "there's a lot of work to breeding dogs," says Liane, the couple have not yet decided whether they want to breed other varieties of dogs or not. For a perfect litter, a dog must be "timed" so breeding can occur at a particular time with a particular mate. This aspect to the profession is extremely important, because the value of the animal could depend on its colouring, type of coat, nose length and overall size.

Thanks to proper breeding with 'Shamus', the MacDuff's pride and joy Lahso-Apso, they brought back three first from the Haliburton County Fair held last week in the best of breed, the best non-sporting and the longest hair classes. The shows are exciting, but they aren't the main reason the MacDuffs own a kennel full of dogs.

"We have to sell them," says Gary, "but we have them because of a combination of a lot of things really." The animals are still considered pets by their owners, and are treated with the kindness and love that is common with most other dog owners. And the problems have been kept to a minimum.

"We've had no problems with our dogs yet...as long as you keep them in good shape, you shouldn't have any problems," Gary stresses. Yet the animals don't receive any more special treatment than any other dog; the adults can stay in the kennel, on occasion going for a run, and the puppies stay in the house until they're old enough to join the others.

Perhaps the most exciting element of dog breeding is the knowledge that you are helping to create something that may be even more striking than the animal from which it came.

"You'll get some dogs that'll have certain 'things' about them," says Gary. "And when you see those things, you know you've got something special."

Hospital, Toronto on Friday, August 10. She is expected home shortly and we wish her a speedy recovery.

The correct date for the fund-raising township Minor Boys Hockey League dance is Saturday, August 25. Norland community hall is the place to come to dance to the music of Linda Revelle and her Rhythm Country group from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Admission is only $7.00 a couple with refreshments and the bar licenced under L.L.B.O. Advance tickets may be obtained from Fae Quinn (454-8432) or at the township office.

While on the subject of corrections, a line was left out of my council minutes in last week's column. Unfortunately, the omission completely changed the meaning of the motion. Correct motion re: Head Lake Tavern, should have read that the owners of the Head Lake Tavern will be advised by letter that they are not allowed to have more than four trailers on rented sites on their property. I'm sorry if this error has caused any confusion to anyone.

Principal Brian Hough will be in Norland Public School on Monday morning August 27, all day on Tuesday, August 28 and Friday morning August 31 for all interested parents of elementary school children. Before school opens on Tuesday, September 4, "Proof of Age" must be provided by parents for kindergarten children. September 4 will be a full day rather than the usual half day of school on opening.

Tuesday, August 28, is the last Tuesday that the Norland U.C.W. Opportunity Shop will be open. It will, however, still be open on Saturdays from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. until Thanksgiving, weather permitting. There is a good selection of nearly-new fall and winter clothes on display at reasonable prices as well as useful articles for the house or cottage. On behalf of the U.C.W., let me express our thanks to all who have kindly donated clothes and articles to the shop. At this time we have on hand sufficient clothing to complete this year and we would ask that you refrain from further contributions because of limited storage space. The shop is on the east side of Highway 35 beside Norland Marine.

Only two more weeks of Kawartha Summer Theatre at the Academy Theatre, Lindsay. The play August 21 to 25 is called "Cheaters", a 1978 Broadway comedy. It is the story of two middle-aged couples who feel that life is passing them by and the son of one and the daughter of the other who live together but feel that marriage is needed for true happiness. Reserve your seats for 8:30 p.m. performances by calling 324-9111 or attend Wednesday 2:00 p.m. matinee when no reservations are required.

Haliburton Highlights

by Creighton Feir

Mr. Chris Coneybeare of Riverside, California spent four days recently visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Coneybeare.

A few weeks ago we mentioned in this column that it was no wonder that we have garbage strewn along the highway when visitors who are coming into Haliburton for the first time don't know where the dump in Haliburton is located. We suggested that possibly a sign near the Driftwood Restaurant pointing with an arrow to the dump would solve the problem. The next day the sign pointing to the dump was up. Some of the employees of the Ministry of Transportation and Communications told me that they have had signs up before but vandals kept tearing them down.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Smyth, Heather and Ian, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dart and Gregory spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dart and helped to celebrate Russ's birthday party on Sunday.

David Bishop, Ken Wilson and his two sons, John and Paul, left last week for a ten-day fishing expedition in the Arctic.

Men are busy these days cleaning out the logs in the narrows from Haliburton Marine up to the white bridge that leads into Head Lake. This is something that should have been done a long time ago and now it should be very smooth sailing for the boats that come up through these narrows. Tim Casey, complete with diving suit has been hauling the logs out. The next project should be to dredge these narrows. This should make quite an improvement.

Work started last week on the renovations of the exterior of the Old Barn building on Maple Avenue.

Carnarvon News

by Blanche Windsor

It was too bad the weatherman could not have favoured us on Saturday as he did on Sunday. However, it was more or less of a Scotch mist and the fun day was quite a success. About 60 senior citizens from Extremicare and Hyland Crest were present and were served in the community building. The barbecue was a big attraction and was served, along with potato salad and cole slaw. The baking soon sold and there was a good art show. Mr. Chas. Fader in his 100th year was chosen to cut the ribbon. A representative from Wintario was there, which was fitting, as they have donated, along with the recreation centre, $126,000 towards the construction and various sports facilities. The dance at night was a big success.

Saturday was also an important day at the W. Tomlinson home, where Warner's grandmother celebrated her 90th birthday. Some 25 guests were expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cowan of Little Britain have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ab Carr.

Mrs. Barbara Maschke and her husband spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. S. Barnes.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Russel are to be congratulated on their beautiful arrangements of flowers in the church every Sunday. They have had Barbara and Bill Gasky and family there for the weekend. We are sorry to hear that Mrs. E. Stutt is in the hospital in Minden.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McKay and sons, also Keith Thomas have gone to their cottage on Matagami Lake. Jan and the three boys will spend a couple of weeks there.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. O'Rielly of Newmarket are holidaying with their daughter, Mrs. Ray McKay.

No chairs up the aisles at the Sunday morning service would make one think that some of our summer visitors have folded their tents like the Arabs and gone back to the city.

between Stanhope Township and Wintario as a result of the manner in which the township administration conducts its business with Wintario.

In his address, Reeve Jim Harrison thanked all who had contributed so much in time, labour, and material, as well as financial support, then went on to state that community spirit was not dead in Stanhope. He expressed the thought that, without pettiness, but with mature consideration and determination the effort would still go on to make Stanhope Township a pleasant place to live and to visit. The efforts of many people went into planning the festival day, and the hard working chairperson, Ella Gillies, deserves credit for her leadership. But so many people did so much it would be difficult to begin giving individual credit to anyone. The excellent efforts of the library committee was apparent in the very fine art show, while the craft show was also a big attraction. Outdoors, the ball diamond, tennis courts, and the horseshoe courts were very popular. The dog show, master minded by Ray Woodward, was a very popular attraction thanks to Ray's good judgement. The beef barbecue was a real treat for those who participated and his hours of work preparing the fires and applying his magic seasoning should earn Elvin Johnson the title of master of the barbecue. Ably assisted by Stan Moore and by Ken Whitney, Elvin produced a product that was eagerly consumed by the people attending the event.

We understand that plans will soon be underway to hold a bigger and better Stanhope day next year.

Farm News and Views

Take Soil Samples Now
Now is the ideal time to take soil samples for your 1980 crops.

Many farmers plan to take their soil samples later in the fall after all their harvesting is finished. However, cold, wet weather often delays harvesting, they get busy at other important jobs, and before they realize it, the ground is frozen and it's too late to get those samples.

During the next couple of weeks, farmers should plan to spend an hour or two on this important job. With hay and grain crops harvested, it's easy to sample these fields.

And even though the corn is still growing, it's not too difficult to go through the corn fields for samples as well.

Soil sample boxes are readily available at most farm supply outlets in the area, or at the Lindsay Agricultural Office.

A shovel or soil tube and a pail are all the equipment you need. It's a good idea to sample at least 10 spots in a small field, or one place per acre in larger fields.

The soil samples are sent to the Soil Test Lab at the O.A.C. in Guelph for analysis. The testing of soil samples for field crops is free of charge. This analysis indicates the amounts of phosphorus, potash and magnesium available for growing plants in that field, as well as whether any limestone is needed to improve the soil.

This information is then related to the amounts of plant food required to profitably grow the specific crop you plan for that field, and a definite fertilization program is recommended. This program can include manure or commercial fertilizer or a combination of both.

Farmers in Victoria and Haliburton Counties realize the value of getting their soils tested. Don't wait until too late this fall to take your soil samples. Do it now.

Victoria 4-H Fair

The Emily-Omamee Community Centre is the site for the 4th Annual Victoria County 4-H Fair on Saturday, August 25.

The program will begin with Achievement Days for the Omamee 4-H Beef Calf Club and the Omamee 4-H Dairy Calf Club at 10:00 a.m.

The afternoon features classes for beef, dairy and horse 4-H club members, starting at 1:00 p.m.

The Victoria 4-H Fair is open to all 4-H agricultural club members in Victoria County.

Winners in the beef and dairy showmanship classes will represent Victoria County in the showmanship classes at the 4-H Inter-County Championship Show, Lindsay Central Exhibition.

Members of the Victoria 4-H Garden Club will exhibit their vegetables for their Achievement Day.

Each 4-H agricultural club is invited to display a 4-H exhibit at the fair. Winners will represent the county at Lindsay Central Exhibition.

Miss Mary Dart is spending the month of August at Camp Gay Venture at Lochlin.

Saturday and Sunday nights seem to be the nights for the local speedsters to take to the roads in the village and tear up the turf. On various nights, people find it hard to sleep and these drivers make it a practice of screeching their tires all around the village. I wonder if some of them ever considered the possibility of joining the Hell Drivers. If they are going to drive like this, they might as well get paid for it.

The Haliburton Highlands Golf Club are pleased to have arranged with Laurie Buckland, head pro of the Aurora Highland Golf Club, for three sessions, this Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 22, 23 and 24, between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. Cost is $5.00 per session.

Marty McMullen has joined the sales staff of L. VanLieshout Real Estate Ltd., Haliburton. The McMullen family have been coming to the Haliburton area for 70 years and Marty is the first member of the family to take up permanent residence here.

One of the most brilliant speakers ever to address the Rotary Club of Haliburton, was on hand at a recent meeting of the club. John Spagge, vice-president for programming for C.F.R.B. of Toronto, a fellow Rotarian from the Toronto Club, gave a very good talk on The Four Way Test, its origin and the fact that in using it in all of our affairs, business will ultimately lead to success not only in Rotary, the advertising business, but in any business. A quote from his speech was: "Put man together right and the world will be right."

At a recent meeting of the Rotary Club of Haliburton, Alex Lopez, our exchange student, gave his farewell to the club. A very moving and emotional experience for not only Alex and his host families but also for the club members and wives who came to know him. He intimated that he had mixed feelings about returning home as Canada had become home to him now, and at least would be his second home to which he knew he could return. He most certainly was a top notch ambassador for his country, Argentina and just an A-1 fellow all around. He has most certainly set an example which will be hard to follow and he was a very mature young man sensitive to the feelings of all those with whom he came in contact. Pete Curry, Alex's counsellor, presented him with a gold chain and medallion on which was inscribed his Canadian name "Alex", and "Haliburton Rotary 1979".

Grenville Schrader of Oakville, Ontario, recently sent the Echo two interesting photos for our Pic of the Past accompanied by an interesting letter in which he told us that he was born in Haliburton on a cold February night in 1930 and attended five schools from Haliburton to Gooderham, Irondale, Gelert and the Dutch Line.
